

Ropes Training

Course Overview

Rope training (also known as Warrior or Battle Ropes) is an extremely effective training method that offers impact-free movement while increasing your core, shoulder and grip strength. It is an excellent form of cardio training as you slam the ropes down for strength, power and endurance. And of course – fun!

You will walk away from this course ready to start incorporating rope training with either groups of clients on in 1-2-1 PT sessions. The day will cover all you need to run effective rope training sessions, covering an intensive range of exercises. You will learn about the most common exercises for making waves and slams. These can be varied in countless combinations.
